The YPG stables are in desperate need of improvements, better stalls, more turnout facilities for the number of horses present, shade structures within the turnout areas, better storage for patrons' supplies/feed and far more support than they are receiving.

the ability to ride your motorcycle or other ORV DIRECTLY to the back gate by Fisher school to ride in the desert. Currently, the police have issues with this. Some will cite you a citation for the infraction where others do not. Bottom line, I feel I am being forced to either buy a truck or trailer, when I do not need to.

It takes me about a half-hour just to get to Main Post from my duty station and I do not live on post. I don't user MWR services very much at all. I keep my trips to Cactus Cafe to no more than once per pay period, if that often.

As far as I know: (1) the car wash is for government vehicles only; (2) Carlson Travel at YPG is only to book offical government travel--I'm supposed to book personal travel in town.

This survey did not represent the true vission of MWR. MWR does not offer a Golf program. Most of the programs are run at the convenience of the staff. Staff is not trained or accountable for their activities.

I feel that a great deal of why I dont use alot of MWR programs during the work week or weekends is because of the unreliability of whether the program/activity will follow through due to a lack of participation. I think that they can do a much better job in trying to reach the YPG community to participate in it's events. The programs for my children just dont seem to be the same caliber of what is offered off post, it has improved but sometimes again to dont know whether the participation will allow the program to continue and by the time you find out it's too late to sign up for something off post. Alot can and should be done about the mannerism of the employees as well, possibly a lack of training or concern.

YPG MWR does a good job serving our community, given that it is primarily DA civilian in nature. The library is below par, but that may be a sign of the times.

The bowling alley needs to concentrate on cleanliness. I go there a lot nearly everyday and first thing in the morning it is still a mess from the night before. Maybe working the staff an extra thirty minutes for cleanup would be a solution. Overall, I am glad to have daycare availability and places to eat on post. Trips to town are too far for these services. My child is very comfortable and happy at CDC.

The installation MWR could really increase it's income potential by constructing a golf course. I understand that the Big CFSC in the sky does not think this is a good installation to fund one of these projects at; however a break even analysis and a return on investment should be accomplished and a golf course built. During the months of October thru May you would have very few tee times that were not taken. With the number of Civilian Employees that are seen at the local courses we could have a thriving golf program. The other issue is the Cactus Cafe. The prices have increased dramatically and the quality and quantity have deminished. The Cafe which had waitig lines going all the way to the curb do not have that problem at this time, because they have priced themselves out of the YPG workforce market.

There are no real problems with MWR services, the problem is the commuting distance between Yuma and Yuma Proving Ground (~25-miles one way).

MWR in general offers excellent services, and I have used them much more in the past. I am busy, however, and find that most of my time is occupied off post. The commute to Yuma Proving Ground effectively limits the use that I make of the MWR facilities. If I lived on post, I would use them more.

The most lacking MWR is the food quality, availability, and cost. I would have no problem paying $3.00 if it was worth $3.00. I get better quality food and value from services in town at a very reasonable price. The food is overpriced for what you receive. The food is normally luke warm. The food is not cooked to order it is precooked and then reheated. I am completely disgusted with the food served.

Contract with a food service company, such as a reputable company or an independent local owned restaurant. Or just provide us with a convenience store quick pick store and a bunch of microwaves to heat the food.

I would recommend that all food facilities have regular inspections and post the grade of the establishment as is done in town. You fail you close, food safety is a big concern.

For the most part, YPG MWR tries hard and does a very good job. The lunch prices are a bit high for what can be had in the city, but we are too far away.

Debbie, the KFR Road Runner manager has no tact, is rude and could not care about the customer.....totally unsat. I've been a part of the DOD since '82 and have never came across an empolyee of the government, military or civilian, who has such a bad attitude and needs to be fired. I'm sure that some of those customers are not the most pleasant, but she should show restraint and professionalism. The range she supports is where the testing is going on that supports our troops in combat and is very important to their survivability. So those employees who are her customers are very important to YPG, the ARMY and especially the boys in uniform.....they all have a difficult job to do. I don't know a single person at YPG who would disagree with my comments.

My wife and I reside in Yuma and do not use all the facilities available at YPG. We very much appreciate the Veterinary clinic in that we have two dogs and have the clinic do all our shots, etc. and purchase our medications there.

Also the Army Golden Knights that conduct their training at YPG is very well attended and we enjoy the performances year after year. Thank You

Some years ago, while I was still working at Yuma Proving Ground, there was talk about a golf course and a resort facility being built. It never materialized. I would like to see, and would totally support a golf course facility at YPG. I would equally support the return to a Marina activity. I have to park my boat (26' Pontoon, JC Riviera w/260 HP In board?Out boar motor, camper enclosed) at some facility in town, 40 miles away from the river, at a coat of $400/year. YPG is located adjacent to the Colorado River, where I and my wife go fishing regularly. I would gladly pay the cost of parking my boat to MWR at YPG, instead. Years ago, YPG maintained some boat docks at Imperial Dam, approximately 4 miles from YPG, operated by MWR. If there was a facility for boats at YPG, more people would travel the 26 miles from town, and at the same time use some of the other facilities at YPG for food, lodging, and entertainment.

I find that this survey for a retired, 83 year old single officer who lives more than 40 miles (round trip) from YPG of little or no value.

I do find that for the active duty military personnel stationed at YPG it does offer a means of communicating their preferences for some or all of the questions offered.

I would suggest that YPG (MWR) contact the local news media and publish a the very least a column on a regular basis of on and off post activities. Ideally the Yuma Sun, Sunday paper.
